About the birth and death Index

This data was extracted from the Social Security Administration's Death Master file and includes information on people who were alive after Social Security was established in the mid 1930's. This spectrum dates back to folks who were born shortly after the Civil War (1864) who had not yet died as of mid 1930's - to people who were born later and died as recently as 1990. (The index was updated in September 1991.)

There would seem to be some inconsistancies for some family members who died before 1962. We speculate that before then the data was not machine readable. Thus when the index was created some information was omitted. Through a bit of calculations we have determined that the list is about 85% total for people who died after 1962.

We also have noted that after 1988, for reasons only known to the Social Security Administration, they started recording only the month and year of death - omitting the actual day. At the same time they also stopped recording the state of residence at the time of death

Based on the above analysis, searches will produce the best results for persons who were born after 1870, lived long enough to be included in the Social Security system, and died after 1962.

The residence records

About the residence records index

This information was extracted from various public domain sources including phone books, utility records, real estate records etc. We publish this data as the 1992 version. It was current at the time of publication. Searchers should take several factors into consideration.

We are a very mobile and, alas, mortal population. Your new telephone book is already 10% obsolete by the time it reaches your doorstep. To those households listed at an old address, we apologize.

Further confusion may occur in listing a widower in the late husbands name. This is because many widowers keep their public listing in their late husbands name.

Finally, some of you may not be listed at all. This is because we use a double check that results in our not publishing listings that show conflicting information. We eliminate a lot of false information this way however we usually catch up a bit of true information in the sweep.

The Walcher Family Historical, Genealogical, and Current Event Database.

This publication contains information extracted from the Walcher Family Genealogical, Historical and Current Event database. This database is part of a larger collection, the Family News Network database - which includes all surnames.

To date we have input, and sorted by surname, all U.S. residency records, the Social Security Master Death File, assorted marriage, military and census records. Also over a quarter of a million newspaper articles that reference different surnames. The database grows daily as more and more information becomes electronically available.

The database has the capacity to digitize and store old photos, tape recordings, even videos. This results in information of a more lively nature then may be found in conventional genealogical databases.

Additional publication for the Walcher Family will be available soon. In the meanwhile we urge all family members to mail in anything you may have. Group sheets, old photos, newspaper articles, anything you have that may be of interest to a fellow Walcher.

in the land rush system, and this time determined upon a lottery. It is said 164,000 people registered for 13,000 claims. But at least opportunity was fair to all.

Lem's luck ran well at last. His name was chosen, and his first choice of claims was still available. He picked a spot along Post Oak Creek.[2] The two things his long experience on the frontier had proved most essential were wood and water. These were here, and they could live out their days.

With the help of the boys when one or more was available, by himself when they were not, Lem hewed a home from this new wilderness: log cabin, log barn, log fences and corrals, and logs for posts and firewood for his neighbors. These made up his life for the next few years. And when drought came here, too, as it always had come before, his timber was his living. Neighbors on the open plains around him had a much harder time.

Later came a real house of real lumber. There came also a degree of well-being, if not real prosperity, such as the family had never known before. There came cattle and horses and hogs; corn and orchard and garden. There came the tranquility of age and wisdom. There were also the visits of children and grandchildren. And there was the respect of neighbors and friends. Lem had found at last his 160 acres.

[2] This location was 8 miles southwest of Cache, in Comanche County.

material greatly in demand for commercial structures. With little skill or knowledge, and hardly knowing how it happened, the family was soon in the manufacturing business. This business was later transferred to the west side of town. These two brick plants were the only ones of consequence ever in the Norman area. They furnished most of the brick used there for twenty years or more.

Meanwhile there was more pioneering in prospect. The children were growing up, the girls beginning to get married, Jesse and John going to the University when possible, but Lem still needed that 160 acres. And opportunities were still presenting themselves as more areas of the territory were opened for settlement.

First was the September 22, 1891 opening of the Shawnee-Pottawatomie lands just to the east of Norman. By this time all areas of the territory were as an open book to the Hefleys because of their hunting trips. And this country appealed not at all from the standpoint of farming. But, more for the fun of an expedition than from any serious intent to homestead, Lem organized a sizeable crew and set off in wagon and on horseback for this new promised land. They drove to Tecumseh, one or two filed on some city lots, but mostly they just enjoyed camping out and watching the excitement.

Actually Lem had had his heart set for years on a claim in the Chikaskia bottom, a country well known from hunting trips while still living in Kansas. He was patiently awaiting the opening of the Cherokee Strip which by now everyone knew would have to come soon. And come it did, almost exactly two years later.

This was probably the greatest single effort of Lem's life. Plans and preparations went on for months. Fine horses were purchased and meticulously trained. Because of friends and relatives still in Kansas, and because of the location of the goal, it was decided to come in from the north. Jesse and Harold were in the party, of course, and a new son-in-law. John was still too young to file but went along to drive the supply wagon. A Walcher cousin went from Norman and an equal group of Walchers and friends was to meet them in Kansas. Hunnewell was the point of registration.

The day dawned clear and warm, too warm for the violent action soon to be required of the horses. But these were excellent, most of the horsemen in the party the finest the frontier could develop. There was no question but that they would be first at their destination. The main crowd was soon left running behind, and many who pressed their horses hard to reach the fore were soon passed with dead or dying horses at their feet. But after a few miles, quietly, mysteriously from each clump of timber would emerge fresh contestants on fresh horses to take up the race. The country was so full of sooners, it was soon apparent that the legal entry did not have a chance. They entered the Chikaskia River bottom and rode for miles without finding one unstaked claim. At a rendezvous near where Blackwell now stands bitterness of disappointments and frustration was most prevalent. After taking council most of the Kansas contingent decided they had gone far enough but the rest wanted to push on. On to the Salt Fork was the next leg, again covered rapidly and efficiently. But again the bottoms were full of people who couldn't possibly be there. Across the river they rode, and out on to the high plains beyond. From a well marked section corner, they took bearings and discovered they were more than half way across the Strip. It looked like this or nothing. Two members of the party finally put down stakes, in utter disgust the others did not even bother. All rode back dejectedly to pick up the supply wagon. None ever went back to prove up a claim.

This must have been one of the greatest disappointments of Lem's life. The injustices of the system now were so obvious to all that it seemed inconceivable that government officials could have been a party to it. On the other hand Lem, and all his party, had their sights too high. Having been burned out in Kansas they had no use for any upland farm. Hundreds, no doubt, were still available, but none of those left to honest participants in the race were acceptable to these.

It must have seemed to Lem now that his dream of land was never to be realized. Another eight years in Norman were to intervene before the call came again. Rearing of the family was completed, marriage, school and vocational goals took the interests of the children, the lure of the frontier seemed dead. Came also two more land acquisitions by the growing territory, the Kickapoo country and Greer County. These created little interest in the Hefley clan. But one more was to come.

With family responsibilities well disposed of word came at the turn of the century that the vast areas west and southwest of the Territory were to be opened to settlement. Once more the elder Hefleys felt the call. Lem explored and approved the area lying south of the Wichita Mountains in the Comanche reservation and determined on one more try.[1]

The Federal Land Commission had discovered the inequities

[1] At this time, the Kiowa-Comanche and the Wichita-Caddo reservations were opened to settlement in southwestern Oklahoma. Drawings for the lottery took place on August 6, 1901, at both Lawton and El Reno, Oklahoma Territory.—Ed.

for settlement. Invading hordes of farmers and dudes arrived over night and the wilderness was gone forever.

Not that Lem minded so much as the boys. He was still a farmer at heart and made his plans for homesteading. After the arrival of the first trainload of prospectors from Purcell, and after horsemen who came in across the river southwest of town had passed, he stepped across the tracks and drove his stakes on the quarter section joining the Norman townsite on the southeast. Jesse came in from across the river and staked a bottom land claim west of town. Harold, not yet of age, helped Henry, who was old enough but crippled, to take a claim southeast of town.

But alas for the Hefley dreams, these efforts were all for naught. Jesse found his stakes contested by men with guns and an obvious prior claim. He discovered later that they just as obviously had arrived illegally the day before. Henry's claim was upland and the boys were fundamentally not much interested in land anyway so they decided it wasn't worth proving up. As for Lem, being a permanent resident and being busily engaged in preparation for the big event, he never gave a thought to leaving the area, and no one bothered to tell him he would be forfeiting his right to a claim by staying. Someone immediately contested and after several years of lethargic court and land office procedure his rights were all invalidated.

Contrary to the picture of argument, violence and ill-will painted by many in connection with Oklahoma land openings, Norman's was the height of peacefulness and good humor. Much bustle and disorder to be sure; unfair, even ruthless, advantage taken; but most people took problems in stride, coming to town to relax and swap stories and find out what others were doing.

Business was booming at the section house. Many thousands of people passed through Norman in those first few days. The Hefley table was the only one for public service. No one anticipated the size of the crowd, food ran out before rush orders to Arkansas City could replenish the supply. There was no source of bread so Mrs. Hefley settled into a several days' routine of doing nothing but baking biscuits while others took care of the lesser cooking chores.

But soon the rush subsided and the work of maintaining the railroad went on. And the family had acquired a taste for enterprise. Soon a shack went up where the public could continue to be fed and where bunks could be laid for several paying guests. Later a sizeable hotel was built on the northwest corner of Lem's claim and the board and bed business continued until the final loss of the land. Soon, too, it was discovered that clay deposits existed on the property suitable for making bricks, a

A PIONEER AT THE LAND OPENINGS IN OKLAHOMA

By Maurice Hefley

Jefferson Lemanosky Hefley was only one of a long line afflicted with the urge to travel west. From Germany to Pennsylvania to North Carolina to southern Illinois they had wandered, the Hefleys and the Walchers along with other families of a German colony which could not stay put but could not separate either. And always there was a member, or members out ahead, scouting out new territory for the expanding tribe.

Lem Hefley came home from the War Between the States to Montgomery County, Illinois, took a bride from among the Walchers, and tried to settle down to farming. But far from allaying his wanderlust the war years had only whetted it. Captured and paroled, he had spent a year and a half of the war wandering to the California gold fields; out by wagon train, back by ship via Panama and New York; he had seen much more of the world than the average farm boy and he was determined to see more.

It was fall of 1871 before the call of the frontier pulled him west again. Perhaps greater success in farming might have kept him in Illinois. But having started with nothing, and five seasons on the farm having left him with no increase in worldly goods except for three sons, Illinois had equipped him with little resistance to the call. He set out with his brood for Kansas, following the trail of family ties. First, it was Chautauqua County, then Woodson County, and in late 1874, the wagon trail led to Sumner County.

This was to be home for thirteen years. Here was the real frontier. This was the great plains. Here was dugout living. To this region came the grasshopper plagues, the Indians from below the border, the cattle drives from Texas, the gamblers and saloons and dance hall girls that followed the railroads and the drovers. And to here came more of the family. The tribe was growing again. And Lem's family increased to eight children; the older ones reached young manhood. The country filled up with people, and Lem was ready to move on again.

But to here also came the drought and hard times. Everyone went broke trying to raise corn, then even the wheat burned up. It was time to move on. The fall of '87 found the family almost destitute; the homestead and farm equipment were sold at auction and once more the covered wagon, now only a borrowed one, set out for new frontiers.

* Mr. Maurice Hefley has contributed this story to The Chronicles in memory of his grandfather, Jefferson Lemanosky Hefley, pioneer settler in the Kiowa-Comanche Country in 1901. The author is a native of Oklahoma, a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, practicing architect and engineer and retired U.S. Army colonel who makes his home in Oklahoma City.—Ed.

It seemed, however, best to head for civilization first because somewhere they had to raise a stake. Arkansas City became the choice over Wichita for no apparent reason. And on this simple decision hinged the entire future of the whole Hefley clan.

The family's only real resource now was the will to work for a living. In a few days Lem and the two older boys, Jesse and Harold, were all working for a dollar ten a day in a gravel pit, ten hours a day, six days a week. Grueling but not discouraging. Faith for a better day had never been brighter because conditions could hardly get worse.

A new railroad had just been opened south across the Indian lands to Texas. Product of the gravel operation was going for ballast along this line. It turned out that the maintenance superintendent was a man from Sumner County whose family was well known to the Hefley's. Shortly he proposed to Lem that he and his boys, John too was big enough now to work though only fourteen, ship down into the territory and go to work for the railroad. Camping in the wilderness might have appalled many men, and no doubt contributed to the availability of the jobs, but to the Hefleys nothing could have been more welcome. Besides—in this direction might lie that 160 acres of paradise for which Lem was ever alert.

The assignment turned out to be Norman, a tiny station and a section house in the wild. This was a junction of two sections of railroad maintenance and two crews of a dozen or so men each worked out of here. The section house constituted the only living facilities; here a man and his wife cared for the bunking quarters and prepared the meals. The Hefleys set up in a tent and prepared their own meals. The operators of the section house were not very satisfactory at the time and in a few weeks most of the men were eating at the tent.

Shortly the superintendent proposed to Lem that he bring his family down and take over complete operation of the facilities. More than a year passed in serene and happy pattern; hard work and sweat were nothing new. Come fall the boys, and Lem too, largely quit the work and wallowed in a plethora of hunting expeditions. This time, however, they had an excuse. The huge table had to be served, game was abundant and the railroad offered ready access to commercial markets. Paradise, indeed! But not for long. On April 22, 1889 their paradise was opened Hank's horse, too, was a problem. Insufficiently broken, a little Indian pony, sh. went wild in the melee of getting under way and tried to both throw her rider and to run away with him. But Hank was equal to the occasion and able to keep his seat and regain control.

We got together and progressed calmly and steadily, mostly at a long lope, that ate up the miles.

About six or seven miles into the race we came across a man standing beside the trail. A horse which was unable to rise lay on the ground beside him. We drew rein to see if our help was needed, but he simply waved us on and shouted; "Don't mind me, Boys, thank you. I will hold this claim right here if I can. Go right on, and good luck to you!"!

His horse had stepped into a ditch beside the road, had fallen and broken a leg. It would never get up. We saw the man no more.

Ten or twelve miles along we came upon a large work horse lying dead by the trail. No owner was in sight, apparently he had gone on afoot. A great many horses, both good and bad, went out the same way - that day.

After a half hour or so we began to notice that every time we passed a little creek or a clump of brush we would find horses running beside us which had not been there before. These animals were hardly sweating at all while ours was in a lather. We soon began to understand that the regristration plan had failed miserably in its purpose: that men who had registered the first day, or the second, had departed quietly and for two days had been slipping over the border and hiding out in secluded spots. From those stations they could emergeunobserved and join the rush as it swept past. Thus, while starting on a par with the leaders of the crowd they had fresh horses to give them a great advantage.

However, these were the timid Sooners. Their bolder brothers were yet out in front. At the end of an hour of riding we reached the Chickaskia river just north of where the city of Blackwell, Oklahoma now stands. We rode into the water, dismounted and wet the mouths and heads of our horses. They were too hot and excited to drink, but we let them breathe while we counciled as to the next move.

We had expected this to be near the end of our journey. We hAD THOUGHT WE WOULD SPREAD OUT and find claims in this valley and we knew we had ridden well ahead of the crowd. But we only had to look around to see that we were not. All the bottom land seemed covered three and four deep already. These people could not have started at the border at twelve as we did. Most of them could not even be those who had joined us along the way. They had beaten us to the desirable farms, but most of them had been there well ahead of our start at the Kansas line.

This was a bitter disappointment to us all. Al and the others from Kansas decided they had gone far enough, if they could find no claim in this bottom they did not want one at all. We left them there to turn up river and spent the rest of the day in an effort to uncover something the crowd might have overlooked.

The rest of us wanted to push on. We had come too far and worked too hard to be willing to admit defeat this early in the game. It was another ten or twelve miles straight ahead to the Salt Fork. So we were off in a few minutes on the second leg of the journey.

OPENING OF THE STRIP SEPTEMBER 16, 1893 Jesse L. Hefley

We had grown to maturity in Southern Kansas near the border of the "Strip" We had hunted it for years and knew it as we would our own farm, We all liked it and were determined to secure some homsteads there.

Jesse and Hank hefley were to ride horses. Ben Walcher had a team "Bill and Babe" He would ride Bill. That left Babe - but two more horses were needed, one for Pa (Lem Hefley) and a team for the wagon.

Several weeks were spent in training our mounts. Extra rations of oats, extra grooming, and long daily rides at a fast pace gradually put them in top condition.

Big Al Walcher (A.M.B.) was going to ridewith us and two of the Wynn boys. Little Ed Wynn would drive another supply wagon. Rush Walcher owned a big, strong two year old he would send along for Pa (Lem Hefley) to ride - and Al brought an extra to put in our team with Babe..

Some years before our departure from the farm in Kansas Al Walcher had married Lidonia A. Wynn. We had known all the family of old, but this in a sense, made them (the Wynns) our relatives as well

We were all set, a party of eight riders and two wagons. Lemuel Hefley, Jesse and Hank Hefley, Al and Ben Walcher, Tom and Ed Wynn and Charley Kahoe.. And there was reason for the large group. Our experiences in previous openings had proven the value of witnesses.

The land office in Washington decreed that all who were to enter, must register ahead of the run and must carry on their persons certificates of that registration - on the day of the opening and when filing upon the land. The old border town of Hunnewell, Kansas was one of several designated points and it was there we decided to go.

There were thousands of people there, and I suspect a great many more than had been anticipated. We arrived before the registration started, but the crowd was so large that the work went very slowly. The long lines of people were organized into companies of 25 with a Captain for each company. This enabled the members of each group to mantain their positions in line by a single representative, while the rest were free to come and go as they pleased.

I was appointed captain of a group which included our party. We had to camp there in line for the first day and night and into the next afternoon. We accomplishhad the enrollment in time that day to get our outfit assembled and moved to a point on the border some ten miles east of Hunnewell.Here we rested in camp the last night before the opening and were in good shape, and position to begin the big race.

The morning of the opening dawned clear, calm and warm; a little too warm for the tremendous ordeal of violent action that lay before us. We were aware of the weaknesses of horse flesh and thought we knew how to spare our mounts as well as the next man.

We inquired of riders coming in as to whether the regristration ever was completed. The report was that it had been, but that the booths had stayed open all night to accomplish it.

The authorities had designated a neutral strip of land a hundred feet wide just over the state line on which all participants might assemble. This was to avoid as muchaas possible any damage to the property of individuals in the state of Kansas and to provide starting places for all - of as nearly equal convience as possible.

We happened to be located near the top of a ridge which afforded us an excellent view of the multitude for at least a half mile in both directions. The neutral strip seemed completely filled with people, horses and vehicles of one kind and another - as far as we could see. There were many excellent horses, thoroughbreds - trained for the job ahead and far better than any we could boast. There were also draft horses off the farms, quite unfit for the race. There were many light vehicles, two and four wheeled, some with one horse drawing them, some with two. A few men were on bicycles.

At twelve o'clock the signal guns were fired and the whole mass sprang into motion. A truly great spectacle, such as one is likely to see only once in a lifetime. Here and there a single rider dashed quickly ahead, but for the most part the mass moved out with a kind of regularity and restrained speed that seemed to say "We know we are in for a great race and much will depend upon how we ride it"

As for our own party - our agreement to stay together was not as easy of accomplishment as one might suppose. Rush's young horse made trouble for Pa at once. He was highly bred and inclined to nervousness, and was scared of the great crowd and confusion. He went off with an uncontrolable dash - that carried him clear of the crowd and of us. Pa reported he had been in the clear, well out in front of everyone, before he could take charge and slow down.

GREAT SEAL OF THE STATE OF OKLAHOMA 1907

STATE REGISTRAR OF VITAL STATISTICS

Dell Whitten married
Mattie Blackwelder

My Great aunt Clemintine Walcher Hefley

"Mother was the youngest of 12 children. Her parents came to Illinois from North Carolina in 1845, when she was only 3. This was then the frontier & she grew up under much the same conditions as did her own children later in Kansas. Her father died when she was still a small girl & the rest of her childhood was spent in the homes of her older brothers & sisters - wherever her services could best be utilized. Thus learned early to pay her way.

Her formal education was such as the public schools were able to give in that day. The war between the states came as she reached young womanhood - so she knew only life in the rough from her earliest childhood.

by Jesse L. Hefley

Take me back to the home of my youth on the plains
Where the wind & the light seemed to blend
In a wonderful song of the brave & the free,
And the charm of the wild knew no end.

Where the tall prairie grass rose & fell in the breeze,
Like the waves on a billowy sea,
Where the hawk circled high all the day in the sky
And the wolf's howl made wild melody.

Oh, my far away home on the plains
Had a charm I can never forget;
Tho' I have wandered afar through this wide world of change,
The charm of the wild holds me ~~yet~~ !

So I want to go back where my childhood was spent,
Where the prairie mirage made me dream
Of a great wonder-world that I longed to explore,
And the rainbows of youth shed their gleam.

I've seen beauty enough, known earth's joys & delights;
Still the lure of that far prairie home
With its wild, simple life & its matchless expanse
Hold my heartstrings wherever I roam!

Jesse L. Hefley.

across the road from us, a school section, and several other farms in the community. He had little more cash than the rest of us, but could get most of the property by merely assuming a debt. Somehow he managed to make the payments and eventually came out on top."

We Refugio went to Arkansas cities & from there to our summer camp farm Norman Okla - still all unsettled except for Indians.

"I decided to give up the hunting in January for a term in school, but Pa & Hank continued. Ben Walcher was with them, also. We had written him of our decision to spend the winter hunting & Ben was never one to let even one hunting expedition get away from him. So he spent the winter with us.

Sometime during that year Charlie Walcher had heard of, & made arrangements to attend school at Ft Scott. It was a denominational school known as the Ft Scott Normal college. 1888 Actually is was hardly a college, & we certainly were not ready for college work. But Charlie got up there & liked what he found. He began writing me & urging me to come.

"One of the Walcher boys, Ben, (Terms uncle Ben) was for years my fathers most faithful companion in the hunt. Older than I & less addicted to school, he got the jump on me by quite a little. I recall one trip the two of them made into the Territory when they spent 2 weeks & brought back 303 prairie chickens These netted well over $100.00, good pay in those days. Another time the two of them brought in 5 antelope and six deer, besides some turkeys. This meant big money too us

In the fall of 1887 there was just nothing left to do but to sell out & give up our farm. We were deeply in debt - the farm having always been mortgaged John A. Walcher took over the farm & its mortgages, John (Later) did not want the farm & resold it to Charlie Walcher. after two or three years Charlie gave up & let the place go to his brother Al. (Terms father)

Big Al (my term father) was one of the few who never let the country lick him. The oldest of a family of five orphan boys, he worked hard and from early boyhood helped support himself and his brothers. He gave up most of the pleasures we others enjoyed in our youth, but his little place on the knoll across the creek prospered while still a very young man he began to acquire these additional properties from families which had to give up. He took over the Barringer place

Traveling Evangelists

"The ~~First~~ Seventh Day adventists came into the country & created quite an interest. My cousin Big Al Walchen (my father) became converted to this movement & offered himself as a candidate for baptism. These people were not only immersionists, but for all practical purposes, believed that baptism within itself contained the saving grace. This made it necessary that baptism be performed at once; otherwise a willing soul might be lost.

It happened that Al chose a poor time of the year to accept the call. It was mid-winter & the creek was frozen over with six inches of ice. But what mattered ice & weather! There was a baptising to be done they chopped out a hole & the minister stood on the edge, held Al's hands & helped him slide egg into the water. It was almost neck deep. They paused a minute while the ceremony was read, & Al was pushed out of sight beneath the water. When he came out he looked & acted like he was nearly frozen but when someone asked if he were cold he said, "No, I hardly felt it."

I would be the last to say he did. Al was a perfectly sane & normal young man, practical & level headed far in advance of his years. But odd things happened & do happen under the banner of Religion

7) My father was on the first school board. Quite a controversy arose over the location and it was built in the middle of the section. A few years later a new board decided to move it down to the east corner where it would have cross-roads serving it in all directions. Fearing the displeasure & possible restraint of the faction which had located it originally, the new faction made its plans & had it moved & in place during the night. The building sets there yet where I went to school
These were more than just school houses. They were community houses & social centers for the district also used for religious services, serving all denominations.

"Hank, Charlie Walcher & Bert Barringer were in a blackface skit called "Old dismal from Dismal Swamp". Old Dismal played by Charlie, was just that."
Charlie Kalicker also in play with us at Carrager school.

We were heading home from one of these entertainments, a bunch of us with D. S. Walcher driving. He had a strawberry roan mare & our old Dolly hitched to a wagon. — raced Rue Chenoweth & his team of mules.

"Throughout all the differences in religious beliefs there has run a common thread of basic truth. I believe profoundly in the Christian religion. I think it is the most powerful, the most miraculous, & altogether the most wonderful force the World has known" J. I. Hafley

6/ and one of the boys killed it. We had nothing better to do so we dressed & cooked it as we had the rat only this time we had salt. But we decided neither salt, sauce nor mothers touch could ever make that kind good to eat. Similarly at one time or another, we tried nearly everything that grew. We had heard the Indians ate everything & we thought we were as good as they"!

"Some of us took seriously to the business of learning to walk a tight rope. We never progressed to the point of getting the rope high in the air, but Charlie Walcher & I did get a fair job of staying on it.

"Deb whitten used to come to our house to spark Dorcas Grantham (a girl helping mother with the housework")

"Chevarie." "Even staid middle aged farmers such as my father joined the all male party (except the bride & maybe one of the mothers) for the Chevarie. Father was with us the night Beaman Smith got married. W. S. Walcher had married Beamans sister not so long before so Beeman was sort of kinfolks.

"A little later (in late 1870's) a special school district was created & a new school built a mile north of our farm. This became Illinois school, so named because so many of the families had come from Watermelons, canteloupe, pumpkins, squash, pieplons and citrons - planted like the corn - grew like weeds. We hauled them in by wagon loads, piled the surplus by the cow lot & fed it to the stock until mid-winter.

Started a small orchard. Sent back to Illinois for osage orange seed (hedge) & planted small nursery patch - later to be transplanted & used as fences also served as windbreaks & shelter for small game & birds.

"Hank McFlay & I together with several of the Walcher boys were in Shoofly bottom on a rabbit hunt in the snow. We stopped in the creek bottom since there was timber there, had built a fire & were just sitting around relaying & talking. The dogs uncovered & killed a big woods rat. Someone proposed we cook it & find out how a rat tasted. I skinned it & was principle chef. We cut it into small pieces & toasted it over the fire on sticks. We decided the meat was alright, but since we had no salt it was not very palatable.

"Later we were down in Indian Territory on a hunt. Pa had brought Hank & me and Albert Walcher, (my father's) (tho' he never hunted much,) had brought his wagon with his brother Ben and Cousin Tom Wynn. We camped out for the night, having brought water for supper, but none for breakfast. - so we started out the next morning for water & a permanent camp site, leaving the wagons. Hank & I were back by noon - having had no luck - Pa wasn't back yet - everyone else was tired - hungry & impatient. A big hawk lit in a tree near & Albert

The two Alberts, [illegible] something had to be done to distinguish them. So they became, & so remained, Big Al & Little Al, based upon their age.

"The Negley & John Walcher families along with U. S. Walcher, one of Aunt Lucretia's boys, set out for Sumner Co. We had two wagons & 8 head of milk cows. U.S came along to help with the cows. Aunt Lucretia & the rest of her family were to come later. April 1895 arrived

"Our nearest Post office was South Haven (5 m southeast) but Wellington was the Countyseat. It was 10 mi north & a little east. Both had been established April 2, 1871 ~~only 2 or 3 yrs before~~ The railroads had not yet come closer than Wichita so those little towns did not serve as marketing points for settlers crops.

"Aunt Lucretia Walcher & her boys came down from ~~Woodson~~ Co. Kans & were able to settle on a partially improved place near us. Our reports went back to Illinois & several more families came. The Blackwelders the Granthems, the Pappendicks, the Ridenours the Whitakers & several other Walcher families - the Harkey all relatives or acquaintances from Montgomery Co. Ill. moved in to increase our group. In time the whole community became known as the Illinois neighborhood.

"Buffalo bones were picked up, sold & shipped east to be ground into meal for fertilizer (a means of livelihood.) We Prairie chickens too & deer for food.

"~~Located on Longenfelters place & planted 80 acres of wheat first fall 1875~~", Planted corn first Spring by chopping slits in ground with axe & dropping in grains. It produced amazingly in new sod without cultivation.

[illegible]. For some reason Aunt Lucretia (my grandmother) Elizabeth Lucretia Welker Walcher) determined to head west & arrangements were made for them to spend the winter with us. My father took his wagon & team & went over into Missouri to meet them & bring them home. Someone from the old neighborhood in Perryville, Mo. had brought them part way. The clan was gathering & the big house was bulging. We boys who were old enough all went to a little school there in the bush about a mile from our village."

John Walcher seemed not to have become discouraged by the grasshopper experience & planned to go back to his Sumner Co. claim in the spring. And there was unoccupied land there to be had for the taking; & a dollar & a quarter an acre due & payable before the claim could be proved up. My father's eyes glowed as the folks would sit around the fire & discuss the possibilities. John Walcher & Pa (Uncle Sem) went during the winter to see it (Sumner Co). He filed on a quarter section adjoining John's place & came home determined to move in the spring.

"We had two Albert Walcher's with us now. One was John Walcher's boy & the other Aunt Lucretia's eldest boy about 14, or five years older than I." He was already his mothers right arm & a real man in his household. (A. M B) My father.

"But we fared better than many of the settlers because my father was a hunter." The timber & creek bottoms abounded with game of many sorts. Father owned an old long squirrel rifle & he used it with great success. Much of the time we had a freshly killed carcass of deer hanging about the place - also wild turkey, squirrels, rabbits quail, prairie chickens, ducks & geese all from time to time paid tribute to his marksmanship. Fish too.

Traded home & land in Howard Co. Kansas, to a roving preacher (Disciple church or Campbellite), for a home in Woodson Co. town Belmont Kans. Big white two-story house & was great-uncle Samuel postmaster there. House also served as wayside inn 1874 - grasshopper year - swarms numbered in billions - ate everything in their path.

"John Walcher - nephew of my mother had gone out to Kansas from Illinois, 1873, & taken a claim in Sumner Co. (where Bob now lives) 198 miles no. He was caught in the onset of grasshoppers & was wiped out. So in the late summer he loaded his family in a covered wagon & came to Belmont to spend the winter with us. There was his wife Cora, & two small children Albert & Hattie.

I think the relatives were discovering that we had a big home. A brother of my mother, Henry, (John Henry my grandfather) a minister of the Evangelical Lutheran Missouri Synod Church had been living & preaching in Western Missouri & Eastern Kansas (where) (Jefferson county) He had died suddenly) leaving a widow & five small boys and little in the way of support. (my father & his brothers)

They had drifted back to the family in Illinois and later to the Walker home near Perryville Mo.

History of the Hefley & Walcher Family

from the writings of Jesse L. Hefley — 1st Cousin of My Father and C. D. L. Walcher

"For the pioneer urge had been strong in the Hefleys and the Walchers for generations. They had come, originally just two small families, from Germany and settled, along with a group of German families, in Pennsylvania. Family legend has it that an epidemic of some sort developed on board ship. The Hefley father died, leaving his wife and little boy; the Walcher mother also died, leaving her husband & two or three small children. Some time later, having arrived & settled in their new homes, the remaining parents married each other. In telling this story my mother (Aunt Clementine Walcher Hefley) would always end with, "and it was from that one little boy that all the Hefleys in America are descended.

Be that as it may, the German colony, or a portion of it, migrated in a generation to North Carolina & thence to Illinois. And it was to Illinois, in Montgomery Co. that my father (Uncle Lemuel Hefley) returned after the civil war, to select a bride from among the Walchers, and to settle down to farming, the traditional family vocation. And it was there I was born, .. but my earliest recollections are of preparation for departure to a new land and a better life.

Kansas had been much in the news, during the war and after; it seemed to be the frontier of the day. So to Kansas we were bound. Father, Mother, Henry Hank and Jesse & a distant cousin of Mothers, Joe Rumpel.

1871. Ferry across the Mississippi at St Louis. Wagon & team. Thomas settled in Howard Co first in the land rush system, and this time determined upon a lottery. It is said 164,000 people registered for 13,000 claims. But at least opportunity was fair to all.

Lem's luck ran well at last. His name was chosen, and his first choice of claims was still available. He picked a spot along Post Oak Creek.[2] The two things his long experience on the frontier had proved most essential were wood and water. These were here, and they could live out their days.

With the help of the boys when one or more was available, by himself when they were not, Lem hewed a home from this new wilderness: log cabin, log barn, log fences and corrals, and logs for posts and firewood for his neighbors. These made up his life for the next few years. And when drought came here, too, as it always had come before, his timber was his living. Neighbors on the open plains around him had a much harder time.

Later came a real house of real lumber. There came also a degree of well-being, if not real prosperity, such as the family had never known before. There came cattle and horses and hogs; corn and orchard and garden. There came the tranquility of age and wisdom. There were also the visits of children and grandchildren. And there was the respect of neighbors and friends. Lem had found at last his 160 acres.

[2] This location was 8 miles southwest of Cache, in Comanche County.

material greatly in demand for commercial structures. With little skill or knowledge, and hardly knowing how it happened, the family was soon in the manufacturing business. This business was later transferred to the west side of town. These two brick plants were the only ones of consequence ever in the Norman area. They furnished most of the brick used there for twenty years or more.

Meanwhile there was more pioneering in prospect. The children were growing up, the girls beginning to get married, Jesse and John going to the University when possible, but Lem still needed that 160 acres. And opportunities were still presenting themselves as more areas of the territory were opened for settlement.

First was the September 22, 1891 opening of the Shawnee-Pottawatomie lands just to the east of Norman. By this time all areas of the territory were as an open book to the Hefleys because of their hunting trips. And this country appealed not at all from the standpoint of farming. But, more for the fun of an expedition than from any serious intent to homestead, Lem organized a sizeable crew and set off in wagon and on horseback for this new promised land. They drove to Tecumseh, one or two filed on some city lots, but mostly they just enjoyed camping out and watching the excitement.

Actually Lem had had his heart set for years on a claim in the Chikaskia bottom, a country well known from hunting trips while still living in Kansas. He was patiently awaiting the opening of the Cherokee Strip which by now everyone knew would have to come soon. And come it did, almost exactly two years later.

This was probably the greatest single effort of Lem's life. Plans and preparations went on for months. Fine horses were purchased and meticulously trained. Because of friends and relatives still in Kansas, and because of the location of the goal, it was decided to come in from the north. Jesse and Harold were in the party, of course, and a new son-in-law. John was still too young to file but went along to drive the supply wagon. A Walcher cousin went from Norman and an equal group of Walchers and friends was to meet them in Kansas. Hunnewell was the point of registration.

The day dawned clear and warm, too warm for the violent action soon to be required of the horses. But these were excellent, most of the horsemen in the party the finest the frontier could develop. There was no question but that they would be first at their destination. The main crowd was soon left running behind, and many who pressed their horses hard to reach the fore were soon passed with dead or dying horses at their feet. But after a few miles, quietly, mysteriously from each clump of timber would emerge fresh contestants on fresh horses to take up the race. The country was so full of sooners, it was soon apparent that the legal entry did not have a chance. They entered the Chikaskia River bottom and rode for miles without finding one unstaked claim. At a rendezvous near where Blackwell now stands bitterness of disappointments and frustration was most prevalent. After taking council most of the Kansas contingent decided they had gone far enough but the rest wanted to push on. On to the Salt Fork was the next leg, again covered rapidly and efficiently. But again the bottoms were full of people who couldn't possibly be there. Across the river they rode, and out on to the high plains beyond. From a well marked section corner, they took bearings and discovered they were more than half way across the Strip. It looked like this or nothing. Two members of the party finally put down stakes, in utter disgust the others did not even bother. All rode back dejectedly to pick up the supply wagon. None ever went back to prove up a claim.

This must have been one of the greatest disappointments of Lem's life. The injustices of the system now were so obvious to all that it seemed inconceivable that government officials could have been a party to it. On the other hand Lem, and all his party, had their sights too high. Having been burned out in Kansas they had no use for any upland farm. Hundreds, no doubt, were still available, but none of those left to honest participants in the race were acceptable to these.

It must have seemed to Lem now that his dream of land was never to be realized. Another eight years in Norman were to intervene before the call came again. Rearing of the family was completed, marriage, school and vocational goals took the interests of the children, the lure of the frontier seemed dead. Came also two more land acquisitions by the growing territory, the Kickapoo country and Greer County. These created little interest in the Hefley clan. But one more was to come.

With family responsibilities well disposed of word came at the turn of the century that the vast areas west and southwest of the Territory were to be opened to settlement. Once more the elder Hefleys felt the call. Lem explored and approved the area lying south of the Wichita Mountains in the Comanche reservation and determined on one more try.[1]

The Federal Land Commission had discovered the inequities

[1] At this time, the Kiowa-Comanche and the Wichita-Caddo reservations were opened to settlement in southwestern Oklahoma. Drawings for the lottery took place on August 6, 1901, at both Lawton and El Reno, Oklahoma Territory.—Ed.

for settlement. Invading hordes of farmers and dudes arrived over night and the wilderness was gone forever.

Not that Lem minded so much as the boys. He was still a farmer at heart and made his plans for homesteading. After the arrival of the first trainload of prospectors from Purcell, and after horsemen who came in across the river southwest of town had passed, he stepped across the tracks and drove his stakes on the quarter section joining the Norman townsite on the southeast. Jesse came in from across the river and staked a bottom land claim west of town. Harold, not yet of age, helped Henry, who was old enough but crippled, to take a claim southeast of town.

But alas for the Hefley dreams, these efforts were all for naught. Jesse found his stakes contested by men with guns and an obvious prior claim. He discovered later that they just as obviously had arrived illegally the day before. Henry's claim was upland and the boys were fundamentally not much interested in land anyway so they decided it wasn't worth proving up. As for Lem, being a permanent resident and being busily engaged in preparation for the big event, he never gave a thought to leaving the area, and no one bothered to tell him he would be forfeiting his right to a claim by staying. Someone immediately contested and after several years of lethargic court and land office procedure his rights were all invalidated.

Contrary to the picture of argument, violence and ill-will painted by many in connection with Oklahoma land openings, Norman's was the height of peacefulness and good humor. Much bustle and disorder to be sure; unfair, even ruthless, advantage taken; but most people took problems in stride, coming to town to relax and swap stories and find out what others were doing.

Business was booming at the section house. Many thousands of people passed through Norman in those first few days. The Hefley table was the only one for public service. No one anticipated the size of the crowd, food ran out before rush orders to Arkansas City could replenish the supply. There was no source of bread so Mrs. Hefley settled into a several days' routine of doing nothing but baking biscuits while others took care of the lesser cooking chores.

But soon the rush subsided and the work of maintaining the railroad went on. And the family had acquired a taste for enterprise. Soon a shack went up where the public could continue to be fed and where bunks could be laid for several paying guests. Later a sizeable hotel was built on the northwest corner of Lem's claim and the board and bed business continued until the final loss of the land. Soon, too, it was discovered that clay deposits existed on the property suitable for making bricks, a

A PIONEER AT THE LAND OPENINGS IN OKLAHOMA

By Maurice Hefley

Jefferson Lemanosky Hefley was only one of a long line afflicted with the urge to travel west. From Germany to Pennsylvania to North Carolina to southern Illinois they had wandered, the Hefleys and the Walchers along with other families of a German colony which could not stay put but could not separate either. And always there was a member, or members out ahead, scouting out new territory for the expanding tribe.

Lem Hefley came home from the War Between the States to Montgomery County, Illinois, took a bride from among the Walchers, and tried to settle down to farming. But far from allaying his wanderlust the war years had only whetted it. Captured and paroled, he had spent a year and a half of the war wandering to the California gold fields; out by wagon train, back by ship via Panama and New York; he had seen much more of the world than the average farm boy and he was determined to see more.

It was fall of 1871 before the call of the frontier pulled him west again. Perhaps greater success in farming might have kept him in Illinois. But having started with nothing, and five seasons on the farm having left him with no increase in worldly goods except for three sons, Illinois had equipped him with little resistance to the call. He set out with his brood for Kansas, following the trail of family ties. First, it was Chautauqua County, then Woodson County, and in late 1874, the wagon trail led to Sumner County.

This was to be home for thirteen years. Here was the real frontier. This was the great plains. Here was dugout living. To this region came the grasshopper plagues, the Indians from below the border, the cattle drives from Texas, the gamblers and saloons and dance hall girls that followed the railroads and the drovers. And to here came more of the family. The tribe was growing again. And Lem's family increased to eight children; the older ones reached young manhood. The country filled up with people, and Lem was ready to move on again.

But to here also came the drought and hard times. Everyone

* Mr. Maurice Hefley has contributed this story to The Chronicles in memory of his grandfather, Jefferson Lemanosky Hefley, pioneer settler in the Kiowa-Comanche Country in 1901. went broke trying to raise corn, then even the wheat burned up. It was time to move on. The fall of '87 found the family almost destitute; the homestead and farm equipment were sold at auction and once more the covered wagon, now only a borrowed one, set out for new frontiers.

It seemed, however, best to head for civilization first because somewhere they had to raise a stake. Arkansas City became the choice over Wichita for no apparent reason. And on this simple decision hinged the entire future of the whole Hefley clan.

The family's only real resource now was the will to work for a living. In a few days Lem and the two older boys, Jesse and Harold, were all working for a dollar ten a day in a gravel pit, ten hours a day, six days a week. Grueling but not discouraging. Faith for a better day had never been brighter because conditions could hardly get worse.

A new railroad had just been opened south across the Indian lands to Texas. Product of the gravel operation was going for ballast along this line. It turned out that the maintenance superintendent was a man from Sumner County whose family was well known to the Hefley's. Shortly he proposed to Lem that he and his boys, John too was big enough now to work though only fourteen, ship down into the territory and go to work for the railroad. Camping in the wilderness might have appalled many men, and no doubt contributed to the availability of the jobs, but to the Hefleys nothing could have been more welcome. Besides—in this direction might lie that 160 acres of paradise for which Lem was ever alert.

The assignment turned out to be Norman, a tiny station and a section house in the wild. This was a junction of two sections of railroad maintenance and two crews of a dozen or so men each worked out of here. The section house constituted the only living facilities; here a man and his wife cared for the bunking quarters and prepared the meals. The Hefleys set up in a tent and prepared their own meals. The operators of the section house were not very satisfactory at the time and in a few weeks most of the men were eating at the tent.

Shortly the superintendent proposed to Lem that he bring his family down and take over complete operation of the facilities. More than a year passed in serene and happy pattern; hard work and sweat were nothing new. Come fall the boys, and Lem too, largely quit the work and wallowed in a plethora of hunting expeditions. This time, however, they had an excuse. The huge table had to be served, game was abundant and the railroad offered ready access to commercial markets. Paradise, indeed! But not for long. On April 22, 1889 their paradise was opened slide off into the water. It was almost neck deep. They paused a minute while the ceremony was read and Al was pushed out of sight beneath the water. When he came out he looked and acted like he was nearly frozen but when someone asked if he were cold he said,"No, I hardly felt it."

I would be the last to say he did. Al was a perfectly sane and normal young man, practical and level headed far in advance of his years. But odd things happened and do happen under the banner of religion.

"One of the Walcher boys, Uncle Ben, was for years my fathers most faithful companion in the hunt. Older than I and less addicted to school, he got the jump on me by quite a little. I recall one trip the two of them made into the Territory when they spent 2 weeks and brought back 303 prairie chickens. These netted well over $100., good pay in those days. Another time the two of them brought in 5 antelope and six deer, besides some turkeys. This meant big money for us.

In the fall of 1887 ther was just nothing left to do but to sell out and give up our farm. We were deeply in debt--the farm having always been mortgaged. John A. Walcher took over the farm and its mortgages. John later did not want the farm and resold it to Charlie Walcher. After two or three years Charlie gave up and let the place go to his brother Al. (Ferns father)

Big Al (A.W.B.) was one of the few who never let the country lick him. The oldest of a family of five orphan boys, he worked hard and from early boyhood helped support himself and his brothers. He gave up most of the pleasures we others enjoyed in our youth, but his little place on the knoll across the creek prospered. While still a very young man he began to acquire these additional properties from families which has to give up. He took over the Barrringer place across the road from us, a school section and several other farms in the community. He had little more cash than the rest of us, but could get most of the property by merely assuming a debt. Somehow he managed to make the payments and eventually came out on top.

We Hefley's went to Arkansas City and from our Sumner Co. farm and then to Norman Okla.--still all unsettled except for the Indians.

"I decided to give up the hunting in January for a term in school, but Pa and Hank continued. Ben Walcher was with them, also. We had written him of our decision to spend the winter hunting and Ben was never one to let even one hunting expedition get away from him. So he spent the winter with us.

Sometime during that year Charlie D.L.Walcher had heard of, and made arrangements to attend school at Ft Scott,. It was a dinominational school known as the Ft Scott Normal College.1888. Actually was hardly a college and we certainly were not ready for college work, but Charlie go up there and liked what he found. He began writing me and urging me to come.

"Deb Whitten used to come to our house to spark Dorcas Grantham (a girl helping mother with the housework.)

"Cheverie" Even good middle aged farmers such as my father joined the all male party(except the bride and maybe one of the mothers) for the Cheverie. Father was with us the night Beaman Smith got married. U.S.Walcher had married Beamans sister not so long before so Beaman was sort of kinfolks.

"A little later(in late1870's) a special school district was created and a new school built a mile north of our farm. This became Illinois school, so named because so many of the families had come from that state."

My father was on the first school board. Quite a controversy arose over the location and it was built in the middle of the section. A few years later a new board decided to move it down to the east corner where it would have cross-roads serving it in all directions. Fearing the displeasure and possible restraint of the faction made its plans and had it moved and in place during the night. The building sets there yet. They were more than just school houses, They were community houses and social centers for the district--also used for religious services, serving all dimoninations.

Hank, Charlie Walcher and Bert Barringer were in a blackface skit called "Old dismal from Dismal Swamp." Old Dismal played by Charlie, was just that."

We were heading home from one of these entertainments, a bunch of us with U.S. Walcher driving. He had a strawberry roan mare and our old Dolly hitched to a wagon--raced Rue Chenowith and his team of mules.

"Throughout all the differences in religious beliefs there has run a common thread of basic truth. I believe profoundly in the Christian religion. I think it is the most powerful, the most miraculous, and altogether the most wonderful force the world has known" J.L.Hefley

"The Traveling Evanglists came into the country and created quite an interest. My cousin(Big Al) (A.N.B.) became converted to this movement and offered himself as a candidate for baptism. These people were not only immersionists, but for all practical purposes, believed that baptism within itself contained the saving grace. This made it necessary that baptism be performed at once; otherwise a willing soul might be lost.

It happened that Al chose a poor time of the year to accept the call. It was mid-winter and the creek was frozen over with six inches of ice. But what mattered ice and weather! There was a baptising to be done. They chopped out a hole and the minister stood on the edge, held Al's hands and helped him

"Aunt Lucretia Walcher and her boys came down from Woodson Co. Kans. and were able to settle on a partially improved place near us. Our reports went back to Illinois and several more families came. The Blackwelders, the Granthams, the Poppewells, the Ridenours, the Whitakers and several other Walcher families--the Harkeys--all relatives or acquantances from Montgomery Co. Illinois, moved in to increase our group. In time the whole community became known as the Illinois neighborhood. Buffalo bones were picked up, sold and shipped east to be ground into meal for fertilizer.( a means of livelyhood) sold prairie chickens too and used also for food. Planted corn first spring by chopping slits in ground with an axe and dropping in grains. It produced amazingly in the new sod without cultivation. Watermelons, canteloupe, pumpkins, squash,piemelons and citrons, planted like the corn, grew like weeds. We hauled them in by wagon loads, piled the surplus by the cow lot and fed it to the stock until mid-winter. Started a small orchard. Sent back to Illinois for Osage Orange seed(hedge) and planted small nursery patch--later to be transplanted and used as fences. Also served as windbreaks and shelter for small game and birds.

"Hank Hefley and I, together with several of the Walcher boys were in Shoofly bottom on a rabbit hunt in the snow. We stopped in the creek bottom since there was timber there, had built a fire and were just sitting around relaxing and talking. The dogs uncovered and killed a big woods rat. Someone proposed we cook it and find out how a rat tasted. I skinned it and was principle chef. We cut it into small pieces and toasted it over the fire on sticks. We decided the meat was alright, but since we had no salt it was not very palatable."

"Later we were down in Indian territory on a hunt. Pa had brought Hank and Me and Albert Walcher(A.M.B.) (tho' he never hunted much,) had brought his wagon with his brother Ben and cousin Tom Wynn. We camped out for the night, having enough water for supper, but none for breakfast. We started out the next morning for water and a permanent camp site, leaving the wagons. Hank and I were back by noon--having had no luck--Pa wasn't back yet--everyone else was tired,hungry and impatient. A big hawk lit in a tree near by and one of the boys killed it. We had nothing better to do so we dressed and cooked it as we had the rat only this time we had salt, but we decided neither salt, sauce nor masters touch could ever make that bird good to eat. Similarly, at one time or another, we tried nearly everything that grew. We had heard the Indians ate everything and we thought we were as good as the Indians!"

"Some of us took seriously to the business of learning to walk a tight rope. We never progressed to the point of getting the rope high in the air, but Charlie Walcher and I did get a fair job of staying on it.

I think the relatives were discovering that we had a big house. A brother of my mother,Henry,(John Henry my grandfather), a minister of the Evangelical Lutheran Church(Missouri Synod) had been living and preaching in western Missouri and Eastern Kansas(Jefferson Co.) He died suddenly leaving a widow and five small boys and little in the way of support.(A.M.B. and his brothers.) They had drifted back to the family in Illinois and later to the Welker home near Perryville Missouri.

For some reason Aunt Lucretia(Ferns grandmother)(Elizabeth Lucretia Welker Walcher) determined to head west and arrangements were made for them to spend the winter with us. My father took his wagon and team and went over into Missouri to meet them and bring them home. Someone from the old neighborhood in Perryville, Mo. brought them part way. The clan was gathering and the big house was bulging. We boys who were old enough all went to a little school there in the bush about a mile from our village.

John Walcher seemed not to have become discouraged by the grasshoppers experience and planned to go back to his Sumner Co. claim in the spring. There was unoccupied land there to be had for the taking, and a dollar and a quarter an acre due and payable before the claim could be proved up. My fathers eyes glowed as the folks would sit around the fire and discuss the possibilities. John Walcher and Pa(Uncle Lem) went during the winter to see it. (Sumner Co.) He filed on a quarter section adjoining Johns place and came home determined to move in the spring.

"We had two Albert Walchers with us now. One was John Walcher's boy and the other Aunt Lucretia's oldest boy,about 14 , or five years older than I." He was already his mothers right arm and s real man in his household.(A.M.B. Walcher)

The two Alberts, having been brought together at our place, something had to be done to distinguish them,so they become, and so remained, Big Al and Little Al, based upon their ages.

"The Hefley's and John Walcher families along with U.S. Walcher, one of Aunt Lucretia's boys, set out for Sumner Co. We had two wagons and 8 head of milk cows. U.S. came along to help with the cows. Aunt Lucretia and the rest of her family were to come later.

"Our nearest Post Office was South Haven(5 miles southeast) but Wellington was the County seat. It was 10 miles north and a little east. Both had been established only 2 or 3 years before. 1871. The railroads had not yet come closer than Wichita--so these little towns did not serve as marketing points for settlers crops.

HISTORY OF THE HEFLEY AND WALCHER FAMILY
from the writings of Jesse L. Hefley
(1st. cousin of C.D.L. Walcher)

"For the pioneer urge had been strong in the Hefley's and the Walchers for generations. They had come, originally just two small families, from Germany and settled, along with a group of German families, in Pennsylvania, Family legend has it that an epidemic of some sort developed on board ship. The Hefley father died, leaving his wife and little boy; the Walcher mother also died, leaving her husband and two or three small children. Some time later, having arrived and settled in their new homes, the remaining parents married each other," In telling this story my mother (Aunt Clementine Walcher Hefley) would always end wth,"and it was from that one little boy that all the Hefleys in Americe are descended.

Be that as it may, the German colony, or a portion of it, migrated in a generation to North Carolina and thence to Illinois. And it was to Illinois, in Montgomery Co. that my father (Uncle Lemuel Hefley) returned after the Civil War, to select a bride from amoug the Walchers, and to settle down to farming, the traditional family vocation. It was there I was born, but my earliest recallections are of preparation for departure to a new land and a better life.

Kansas had been much in the news, during the war and after;(1871) It seemed to be the frontier of the day---so to Kansas we were bound. Father, Mother, Henry, Hank and Jesse and a distant cousin of Mothers, Joe Rumpel,. Took the ferry across the Mississippi at St Louis with wagon and team of horses. First settled in Howard Co. "We fared better than many of the settlers because my father was a hunter." The timber and creek bottoms abounded with game of many sorts. Father owned an old long squirrel rifle and he used it with great success. Much of the time we had a freshly killed carcass of deer hanging about the place--also wild turkey, squirrels, rabbits, quail, prairie chickens, ducks and geese all from time to time--paid tribute to his marksmanship. Fish too!

Traded home and land in Howard Co. Kansas,to a roving preacher(Disciple Church or Campbellete), for a home in Woodson Co.(Belmont Kansas) Big white two story house and was postmaster there.(Great Uncle Lemuel). House also served as Wayside Inn.

1874--grasshopper year--swarms numbered in billions--ate everything in their path.

"John Walcher-nephew of my mother had gone out to Kansas from Illinois, 1873, and taken a claim in Sumner Co. (Merle Walcher lives now) He was caught in the sweep of grasshoppers and was wiped out, so in the late summer he loaded his family in a covered wagon and came to Belmont to spend the winter with us. There was his wife Cora, and two small children--Albert and Hattie.

Hank's horse, too, was a problem. Insufficiently broken, a little Indian pony, sh. went wild in the melee of getting under way and tried to both throw her rider and to run away wit him. But Hank was equal to the occasion and able to keep his seat and regain control.

We got together and progressed calmly and steadily, mostly at a long lope, that ate up the miles.

About six or seven miles into the race we came across a man standing beside the trail. A horse which was unable to rise lay on the ground beside him. We drew rein to see if our help was needed, but he simply waved us on and shouted; "Don't mind me, Boys, thank you. I will hold this claim right here if I can. Go right on, and good luck to you!"!

His horse had stepped into a ditch beside the road, had fallen and broken a leg. It would never get up. We saw the man no more.

Ten or twelve miles along we came upon a large work horse lying dead by the trail. No owner was in sight, apparently he had gone on afoot. A great many horses, both good and ba went out the same way - that day.

After a half hour or so we began to notice that every time we passed a little creek or a clump of brush we would find horses running beside us which had not been there before. These animals were hardly sweating at all while ours was in a lather. We soon began to understand that the regristration plan had failed miserably in its purpose: that men who had registered the first day, or the second, had departed quietly and for two days had been slipping over the border and hiding out in secluded spots. From those stations they could emergeunobserved and join the rush as it swept past. Thus, while starting on a par with the leaders of the crowd they had fresh horses to give them a great advantage.

However, these were the timid Sooners. Their bolder brothers were yet out in front. At the end of an hour of riding we reached the Chickaskia river just north of where the city of Blackwell, Oklahoma now stands. We rode into the water, dismounted and wet the mouths and heads of our horses. They were too hot and excited to drink, but we let them breathe while we counciled as to the next move.

We had expected this to be near the end of our journey. We hAD THOUGHT WE WOULD SPREAD OUT and find claims in this valley and we knew we had ridden well ahead of the crowd. But we only had to look around to see that we were not. All the bottom land seemed covered three and four deep already. These people could not have started at the border at twelve as we did. Most of them could not even be those who had joined us along the way. They had beaten us to the desirable farms, but most of them had been there well ahead of our start at the Kansas line.

This was a bitter disappointment to us all. Al and the others from Kansas decided they had gone far enough, if they could find no claim in this bottom they did not want one at all. We left them there to turn up river and spent the rest of the day in an effort to uncover something the crowd might have overlooked.

The rest of us wanted to push on. We had come too far and worked too hard to be willing to admit defeat this early in the game. It was another ten or twelve miles straight ahead to the Salt Fork. So we were off in a few minutes on the second leg of the journey.

OPENING OF THE STRIP SEPTEMBER 16, 1893 Jesse L. Hefley

We had grown to maturity in Southern Kansas near the border of the "Strip." We had hunted it for years and knew it as we would our own farm. We all liked it and were determined to secure some homsteads there.

Jesse and Hank hefley were to ride horses. Ben Walcher had a team "Bill and Babe." He would ride Bill. That left Babe - but two more horses were needed, one for Pa (Lem Hefley) and a team for the wagon.

Several weeks were spent in training our mounts. Extra rations of oats, extra grooming, and long daily rides at a fast pace gradually put them in top condition.

Big Al Walcher (A.M.B.) was going to ridewith us and two of the Wynn boys. Little Ed Wynn would drive another supply wagon. Rush Walcher owned a big, strong two year old he would send along for Pa (Lem Hefley) to ride - and Al brought an extra to put in our team with Babe..

Some years before our departure from the farm in Kansas Al Walcher had married Lidonia A. Wynn. We had known all the family of old, but this in a sense, made them (the Wynns) our relatives as well

We were all set, a party of eight riders and two wagons. Lemuel Hefley, Jesse and Hank Hefley, Al and Ben Walcher, Tom and Ed Wynn and Charley Kahoe.. And there was reason for the large group. Our experiences in previous openings had proven the value of witnesses.

The land office in Washington decreed that all who were to enter, must register ahead of the run and must carry on their persons certificates of that registration - on the day of the opening and when filing upon the land. The old border town of Hunnewell, Kansas was one of several designated points and it was there we decided to go.

There were thousands of people there, and I suspect a great many more than had been anticipated. We arrived before the registration started, but the crowd was so large that the work went very slowly. The long lines of people were organized into companies of 25 with a Captain for each company. This enabled the members of each group to mantain their positions in line by a single representative, while the rest were free to come and go as they pleased.

I was appointed captain of a group which included our party. We had to camp there in line for the first day and night and into the next afternoon. We accomplishhad the enrollment in time that day to get our outfit assembled and moved to a point on the border some ten miles east of Hunnewell.Here we rested in camp the last night before the opening and were in good shape, and position to begin the big race.

The morning of the opening dawned clear, calm and warm; a little too warm for the tremendous ordeal of violent action that lay before us. We were aware of the weaknesses of horse flesh and thought we knew how to spare our mounts as well as the next man.

We inquired of riders coming in as to whether the regristration ever was completed. The report was that it had been, but that the booths had stayed open all night to accomplish it.

The authorities had designated a neutral strip of land a hundred feet wide just over the state line on which all participants might assemble. This was to avoid as muchaas possible any damage to the property of individuals in the state of Kansas and to provide starting places for all - of as nearly equal convience as possible.

We happened to be located near the top of a ridge which afforded us an excellent view of the multitude for at least a half mile in both directions. The neutral strip seemed completely filled with people, horses and vehicles of one kind and another - as far as we could see. There were many excellent horses, thoroughbreds - trained for the job ahead and far better than any we could boast. There were also draft horses off the farms, quite unfit for the race. There were many light vehicles, two and four wheeled, some with one horse drawing them, some with two. A few men were on bicycles.

At twelve o'clock the signal guns were fired and the whole mass sprang into motion. A truly great spectacle, such as one is likely to see only once in a lifetime. Here and there a single rider dashed quickly ahead, but for the most part the mass moved out with a kind of regularity and restrained speed that seemed to say "We know we are in for a great race and much will depend upon how we ride it."

As for our own party - our agreement to stay together was not as easy of accomplishment as one might suppose. Rush's young horse made trouble for Pa at once. He was highly bred and inclined to nervousness, and was scared of the great crowd and confusion. He went off with an uncontrolable dash - that carried him clear of the crowd and of us. Pa reported he had been in the clear, well out in front of everyone, before he could take charge and slow down.

"S. P. TROUTMAN, Fillmore, was born in Cabarrus County, N. C., October 3, 1822, and has a good, practical education. He commenced business for himself as a farmer; coming to Montgomery County at eighteen years of age, stayed there two and a half years, working on the farm, and then returned to North Carolina, where he remained until 1847. He served about eighteen months in The Mexican war, having enlisted under Gen. Zachary TAYLOR; went back to North Carolina; remained there until August, 1849, when he returned to Montgomery county, Ill., and worked on the farm one month, and at different other occupations until 1852, when he entered 120 acres of raw prairie land on which there were no improvements of any kind. He has since added eighty acres, making 200 acres of good, tillable land, on which he has erected a good and substantial dwelling, with all necessary outbuildings. He also owns ninety-two acres of land one and a half miles west of his home lace, Section 30. He was married in Montgomery County in the year 1852, to Miss Sarah HILL, a native of that county, who died in 1853. She was the mother of one child, dead. His second wife, Mary A. SHEPPARD, a native of Illinois; died in 1865. She was the mother of eight children, only five of whom are living. Christina L. CRUSE, his third wife, was born in Union County, Ill., in 1822. Henry CRUSE, her father, was born in North Carolina, and was a farmer by occupation. Her mother was also a native of North Carolina. Jacob TROUTMAN, subject's father, was born in North Carolina; served in the war of 1812; was a farmer by occupation, and died about 1829. Christina WALKER(WALCHER), subject's mother, was born in North Carolina, and died in 1850; was the mother of eight children, the subject being the third child. He has an elder brother living in North Carolina. He is a member of the Lutheran Church. He is independent in regard to the political issues of the day; has always done his utmost in aid of public improvements, and the advancement of agricultural interests."

Notes for Daniel Wiley Lyerle

Sarah and Daniel Wiley Leyerle are buried at Big Creek Cemetery. Mexican War: The United States of America, No. 3,000 Dept. of the Interior, Bureau of Pensions, Survivor's Pension: This is to certify that, in conformity with the Law of the U. S. approved Jan 29, 1887

Daniel W. Leyerle late a Private, in Capt. John S. Hacker's Co., 2nd Regt., Ill. Volunteers Infantry is entitled to pension at the rate of $8 per month, to commence on the 29th day of Jan. 1887. Given this 10th day of June, 1887. He served in the Regt. commanded by Wm. H. Birrill in the war with Mexico. He enlisted at Jonesboro, IL the 15th of June, 1846 for the term of 1 yr. and was honorably discharged at Cumasgo, MS on the 18th day of June 1847. He applied for pension at the age of 64 in Union Co., IL. Born March 13, 1823, Union Co., IL. Witnesses: Samuel Martin & Alexander J. Nimmo attested they have known said Daniel W. Leyerle for 41 years & served with him in the above co. and regt. A relative says that Daniel did not join the rush home with the other soldiers. He and a few others stayed, rounded up the horses of both sides, drove them some distance and sold them. He, using the money, or part, to buy land in Union Co., IL. When he arrived at the river, he was anxious to get home, he stripped, folded clothes and possessions on top of his head and swam the river. Sometime after his wife died,he turned over the land to 2 of his sons, then he and spinster daughter Dana moved to Anna, IL and started a little store. A Grandniece in Michigan said her family used to visit him there and he looked exactly like Santa Claus. Due to what was called "white dropsy" he had lost a leg and had a wooden one. He was usually tilted back in an old mule-eared chair against the store. He loved kids and would hand them a pin and tell them to stick him in the leg. They thought he was really brave. The grandniece was about 5 and accidentally hit the wrong leg, launching him out of his chair. In her 80s when she wrote this, she still remembered how it scared her. Leaving Dana to do most of the work at the store, he and his little mare ranged all over southern Illinois. He had a buggy like "Doc" on "Gunsmoke". He was a mixed blessing to those relatives in Michigan, bringing all the news, both of the family and all over the U. S. (met all the boats at river landings), but he sold something he called Elixer, made with a base he bought then added spring water. Certain to cure every ailment known to man or beast. It was mostly alcohol (they had left the 4 gen. of Lutheran church & became Baptists so against all liquor). Still he delighted in slipping sips to all the kids and they thought is was great. Also, the grandneice's mom disliked hos always eating with his hat on. But he was very welcome with all the kin (with his news) and they were all happy, she said, when they saw the little mare coming up their lane. He and his family are buried at a well-kept cemetery, Big Creek Church, Balcom, IL. His was always known as the preacher's place because they stayed with them (before the Elixer business).

Here is the information I have on Christina Cruse and Simeon P. Troutman. I wrote this in MS Word for Windows, so you should be able to read it.

Barbara,
Christina L. Cruse (Born 16 December 1822 in Union Co., IL and died 5 March 1907 place unknown, but presumed to be IL), married 23 May 1872 in Union Co., IL Simeon P. Troutman. I have no other records on him, but apparently she was nearly fifty years old when they married, so there were probably no children by that marriage. I do not have any information of any previous marriages by either of them.

Christina was the oldest daughter of Henry Cruse (27 June 1797-5 October 1866) and Elizabeth Lippard (23 December 1799-24 May 1863) who married 22 April 1819. An older brother of Christine was Charles A. Cruse (16 February, 1820-7 October 1894) and younger siblings were John A. Cruse (16 February 1827-Aft. 1900), Peter Cruse (20 October 1829-Aft. 1883), Caroline Elizabeth Cruse (26 Mar 1831-Aft. 1883), Leah Ann Cruse (4 March 1835-13 February 1912) and Henry Cruse, born 1842. Charles married Nancy Ury; John married Maria Smith; Peter married Catherine Poole; Caroline married John M. Hileman; and Leah married Thomas Ury. I do not have who Henry married. (This could have been a "Jr."; I don't know.)

Henry (Sr.), father of Christine, was son of Peter Cruse (1771-19 November 1857) and Catherine Boger (1778-Bef. 1844). He also had another wife, Mary Flavington. They were married 27 August 1796 in Rowan County, NC. Henry was born in Rowan County and died in Mill Creek, Union Co., IL, as was Catherine? Henry was their oldest child (27 June 1797-5 October 1866) and married Elizabeth Lippard on 22 April 1819, then Elizabeth ? Burkey, a widow. Born in Rowan County, NC, he died in Union Co., IL. Younger siblings were Sarah, born 20 January 1799 in Rowan Co.; Elizabeth (12 December 1800-Bef. 1848) who married Peter Lingle and was born in Rowan Co. and died in Union Co., IL; Moses (15 December 1802-Bef. 1848) who married Margaret Rebecca Miller; Aaron (24 March 1805-Aft. 1819); Peter W. (8 February 1808-27 August 1856); Sophia born 25 January 1809; Rachel (15 November 1811-1899) who married Paul Lingle; Bernice born 15 March 1814; Leah (26 March 1816-1 June 1884 who married Moses Hutson then Charles Lund; and Margaret (21 July 1817-11june 1872) who married John

DeWitt.

Peter Cruse wa the ninth child and fourth son of Johann Phillip Gruss (Cruse) and Anna Catherine Stumpf(?) (we are not sure of her maiden name) who was born in Germany in 1722, emigrated to the United States in 1754 and died in Rowan County, NC before (his will was probated) 5 September, 1805. As near as we can reconstruct the children of Phillip and Catherine, Johann Phillip (Jr.) was born 10 August 1755 in Pennaylvania and died in August 1795 in Rowan County, NC. Magdalene was born 2 July 1860 in PA and married Elias Myers. Johann Adam was born 13 October 1761 in PA and died 5 March 1821 in Jonesboro, Union Co., IL. He married Rosannah Cress. Andrew (Sr.) (my ancestor) was born 24 February 1763 in PA married Anna Catherine Messimer 17 March 1789, and died 17 March 1789 in Rowan Co., NC. Anna Maria was born 27 May 1764 in PA, married Joseph J. Lingle 7 August, 1788, and died 1854 in Union Co., IL. Susanna was born about 1768 in Rowan County, married George Goodman about 1792 and died in June, 1804, also in Rowan Co. Margaretha was born 6 October 1769 and died 10 February 1850, both in Rowan Co., NC. Peter, as mentioned above was born in NC in 1771 and died in Union Co., IL 19 Novenber 1857. The youngest son was Henry C. Cruse, born in NC in 1774, married Susanna Cress 19 August 1794 and died in Tazewell Co., IL. The youngest daughter, Elizabeth was born 7 March 1776 in Rowan Co., NC and died 18 February 1866, also in Rowan County.

As I mentioned above, I have nothing on Simeon P. Troutman other than the date of their marriage 23 May 1872 in Union County, Illinois. I would like to have whatever you can send.

As you probably know, there was almost a mass migration of Germans from Rowan and Cabarrus Counties in North Carolina in 1818 to Union County, Illinois when lower Illinois was opened up to land grants.

You can get more information on these lines from Paul Dillow, P. O. Box 33, Dongola, IL, 62926. He has realy done extensive work on all these Illinois lines.

"It's better to be meanly born, and good than one unworthy of his noble's blood though thy walls shine with thy pedigree yet virtue only makes nobility."

"Teach me the virtues of your family
And to be worthy of your father's name
Learn me the good thy sire did, and so the same
For if you live their names and not their fame
Those designs of their worth will be your shame".

as told to D W Read, son of Elias Read conserning plantation belonging to Elias Read in Louisiana -

" My father bought a farm in Louisiana between 75 and 100 miles nearly due west of Vicksburg Mississippi from a man by the name of Collins -
The farm was in Franklin parish on the East side of the Bayou River - the river being at that time the county line between Ouachita and Franklin Parish.
The County site Franklin parish being about 12 miles Southeast of the farm named Wm Mendenhaugh, La.
I left the farm in October 1862 - travelling to the extreme portion of the State of Louisiana. leaving the state entirely in January 1863. I know that there was packed upon the place when I left the products of the farm - cotton of about five years being about 100 bales - or 50,000 lbs - the cotton was taken early in the spring of 1865.
Between the fall of Vicksburg and the spring of 1865 - (taken by Federal forces & theirs)
My father left his farm on Jan 11 - 1863 - telling me, when I met him at Lauderdale - Miss. about the 1st of February 1863 - that he had left the farm and cotton etc in the care of his neighbor Tallaferro who was a farmer on an adjoining farm - I know that my father never received a penny from there after he left it" Signed by Dawson Owen Read - Reads clerk

Maughan

The O'Maughans were seated in Sussex and adjoining Counties of Virginia early in the eighteenth century - and seem to have been caught by the last waves of the great stream of migration that swept on the Southern border of that state into North Carolina for a hundred years -

Tradition has it that the family is Welsh in origin and that the original form of the name was Maughan - the Irish turned this to Mac the name Maughan -

From 1730-1750 a O'Maughan family was located in Other parts - Sussex Co Va - 3 brothers - William James & John -

William O'Maughan and his wife Mary had 4 sons - James 1730 born, 1735 - Henry 1737 - Arthur 1743

(From Maughan Notes - compiled by Stephen Blount)

"Our family tradition has it - that back in the 18th Century 4 brothers landed in the Carolinas by the name of Maughan they decided to spell their names different in order to trace their progeny -

One took the original name of O'Maughan - another Maughan and so O'Maughan - another Maughan -

Descendants of Henry Walcher

Generation No. 1

1. HENRY[2] WALCHER (ADAM[1]) was born 1756 in Anson County, North Carolina, and died 1829 in Cabrrus County, North Carolina. He married (1) MARGARET SIFFORD/SIEFERT. He married (2) MARY FESPERMAN.

Notes for HENRY WALCHER:
Administrators of Henry's estate were Frederick Troutman, his son and George Barringer.

Children of HENRY WALCHER and MARGARET SIFFORD/SIEFERT are:

Notes for RACHEL/ROSINA WALCHER:
Rosina baptism sponsors were Michael Ritchie and wife.

v. ELIZABETH WALCHER, b. 05 October 1797.
4. vi. FREDERICK WALCHER.
5. vii. HENRY II WALCHER, b. 01 October 1810; d. 17 April 1887.

Generation No. 2

2. MARGARET "PEGGY"[3] WALCHER (HENRY[2], ADAM[1]) was born 1794, and died Bef. February 1829 in Cabarrus County, North Carolina. She married PETER TROUTMAN 04 September 1824 in Cabarrus County, North Carolina. He was born Abt. 1790 in Cabarrus County, North Carolina, and died Bef. June 1860.

Notes for MARGARET "PEGGY" WALCHER:
Cabarrus County Court record in October 1831, Peggy Troutman deceased, Administration to Peter Troutman. Peter Culp security.

October 1931, Monroe and Eliza Troutman, received Peter Troutman as guardian.
In April 1845, Monroe, orphan of Peter, received Jacob Isenhour guardian.

Note that the court records call Monroe Troutman an orphan, even though his father was alive. This is actually fairly common. What was meant is that Monroe Troutman stood to inherit from his Mother's side of the family, namely the estate of his grandfather, Henry Walcher.

Margaret "Peggy" baptism sponsors were Peter Corl and wife, Anna Eve Troutman.

Notes for PETER TROUTMAN:
In 1842, Cabarrus County deed shows Peter Troutman sold the title to his land to Frederick Walcher and George Barringer for one dollar. Apparently, Peter Troutman had borrowed money from his father-in-law, Henry Walcher. Because of the debt, Monroe Troutman, his son would not get anything. To protect Monroe's share of the inheritance, Peter gave up the title for the land. The wording of the deed says that if Peter paid the money he owed the estate, in a certain amount of time, Peter would get the title to his land back. Otherwise, Frederick Walcher and George Barringer would sell the land to pay back the estate, which is what ended up happening. The deed does not mention Margaret "Peggy" or her children by name. Here is the quote, "Whereas the said George Barringer and Frederick Walcher as the administrators of the estate of the late Henry Walcher, deceased late of the said county of Cabarrus as on record will appear and whereas the said Peter Troutman had married one of the daughters of the said Henry Walcher-and the said daughter the wife of the said Peter had died before and in the lifetime of the said Henry Walcher, her father, having 2 children now alive, on illegitimate and born before the marriage of the said Peter with the daughter of said Henry Walcher and the other born in wedlock being the son of the said Peter in lawful marriage as aforesaid." Normally when a child's mother died and the father was still living and the child inherited some money or land from the mother's side of the family, the court appointed a guardian for the child other than the father to hold onto the money or land until the child came of age.

Children of MARGARET WALCHER and PETER TROUTMAN are:

i. MONROE THOMAS[4] TROUTMAN, b. 02 October 1825, Cabarrus County, North Carolina; d. Aft. 1880, Saline, Arkansas.
ii. ELIZA TROUTMAN, b. Abt. 1823, Cabarrus County, North Carolina.

3. CHRISTINA[3] WALCHER (HENRY[2], ADAM[1]) was born Abt. 1795 in Cabarrus County, North Carolina, and died June 1850 in Cabarrus County, North Carolina (Source: 1850 Cabarrus County NC Mortality Census, Lists Christina as age 54 a widow. She was pregnant with her last child when Jacob Troutman died.). She married JACOB TROUTMAN Abt. 1817 in Cabarrus or Rowan County, North Carolina, son of PETER TROUTMAN and CATHERINE LINGLE. He was born 06 March 1788 in Rowan County, North Carolina, and died 13 September 1829 in Cabarrus County, North Carolina.

Notes for CHRISTINA WALCHER:
Per Robert Burke, there is a deed in Cabarrus County, North Carolina in April 1831 between Christina Troutman, widow of Jacob Troutman deceased, and Frederick Walcher in which Christina sold her share of the estate of Henry Walcher, deceased, to Frederick Walcher for $100. The land of Henry Walcher is described as lying on Dutch Buffalo and Coldwater Creeks.

Notes for JACOB TROUTMAN:

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Prospects for an early settlement between striking Kansas City teachers and school district officials were dim today as both sides refused to negotiate unless certain conditions were met.

James D. Robinson, representing the American Federation of Teachers, said discussions would not resume until the district responds to financial proposals and delivers a legal gpinion on multi-year contracts.

Basil North Jr., chief school district negotiator, argued that he could not respond to union financial proposals until the union reacts to a financial overview presented by the district March 10.

North also said his inability to meet with Norman B. Hudson, president of the union local, prevented him from issuing an opinion on the multi-year contract proposal.

School officials have tried since Sun- night to contact Hudson to serve

God hath not promised
Skies always blue,
Flower-strewn pathways
All our lives through
God hath not promised
Sun without rain,
Joy without sorrow,
Peace without pain.

But God hath promised
Strength for the day,
Rest for the labor,
Light for the way
Grace for the trials,
Help from above,
Unfailing sympathy
Undying love . . .

'Mess Hall Mad Cats' Make With Jive At Chow

Messing with melody—Company D, 67th Battalion is one outfit that eats in style here. Dinner music is provided by the "Mess Hall Mad Cats," a quartette of GI rythm-makers composed of: Clarinetist, Pvt. Gail R. Wilson, Wichita, Kan.; Accordion, Pvt. Carmen "Red" Sarlo, Melrose Park, Ill.; Drummer, Pvt. John J. Robinson, Tulsa, Okla.; and "Dog-House" (bass fiddle to you), Pvt. Robert Rose, Detroit. The "Mad Cats" play every day for dinner, in addition to their training as riflemen in the Infantry.—(Signal Corps Photo).

Mess and melody makes for morale in Company D, 67th Battalion. A quartette of hep-cat trainees call themselves "Mess Hall Mad Cats"—and every evening, at supper, they mess around with portions of melody while the rest of their outfit partakes of chow and the GI jive.

"It ain't like the Edgewater Beach Hotel," remarked Cpl. Sol Halfin, Chicago, who hit upon the idea of having the quartette play during evening chow. "But the fellows go for it."

The "Mad Cats" band consists of: Pvt. Carmen "Red" Sarlo, Melrose Park, Ill., accordion; Pvt. John J. Robinson, Tulsa, Okla., drummer; Pvt. Robert Rose, Detroit, bass fiddle, and Pvt. Gail R. Wilson, Wichita, Kan., clarinet.

"I've never seen a happier group of soldiers," remarked Company Commander Lt. Harold D. Floyd, Boonville, Mo. "The music puts them in fine trim, and adjustment problems are greatly reduced."

Cpl. Halfin, who ideaed the "Mess Hall Mad Cats," was a manufacturer of ladies hand bangs before taking up the rifle.

The "Mess Hall Mad Cats" is a versatile outfit. Every man can play more than one instrument, and Pvt. "Red" Sarol gives with the song. Pvt. Rose has spent 13 of his 19 years as a musician and plays every instrument in a modern band.

Gail Wilson is the one with the clarinet - He was shipped out to Okinawa where he was severly injured and sent back to Pearl Harbor and was in a coma for 3 months - Mom thought he was dead - Finally Mom was notified and Soon they were together again - You could not tell Daddy had ever been wounded. He was awarded the Purple Heart. He had a military funeral for him - He had his medals & flag in a case - Daddy loved his clarinet & played like Benny Goodman - He buried his newest clarinet with him so he could play to Mom in heaven - I still have his clarinet he carried through the War -

And he believes that his best interests will be promoted by having his said money in his own possession for the use and purposes stated and that he is competent to take care of said money and use it to his best advantage for the reason that he has for the past few years being doing business for himself.

In the matter of the estate of Rush Walcher, a minor.

Application for leave to pay over to minor money in the hands of the guardian belonging to said minor.

To the Honorable Probate Judge of said County and State.

Your petitioner, Thomsa Dunbar, guardian of the estate of said Rush Walcher, respectfully shows to the court: that said Rush Walcher will be twenty one years of age on the tenth day of June 1894, leaving now only a few months during which the said guardianship of your petitioner will exist, that on the 7th day of October 1893 said Rush Walcher was married, and on the 22nd. day of November 1893 he, the said Rush Walcher went to the country known as the 'Cherokee Strip' and settled upon the southeast quarter of section 22 township ~~34~~ 26 range 2, west for a home, and on the 27th. day of November 1893 he made a homestead entry of said land under and by virtue of the Homestead laws of the United States, with the purpose and intention of making on said land a home for himself and family; that in order to make said home it will be necessary for said Rush Walcher to build a habitable house on said land and a stable for his team or teams, and to make other improvements thereon at an outlay of considerable money, that it will also be necessary for him to buy a team, and wagon and harness, and farming implements, and other things necessary to enable him to make living for himself and his family, and it will be necessary further for him to expend a large sum of money to provide the means of living for himself and wife until he may be able from his said land to raise some crops, as said land is now in a raw and uncultivated state, and will not raise anything until a large amount of labor has been expended on it, and it is necessary under the law that said Walcher shall be on said land making the same the home of himself and family before he has attained his majority in order to comply with the requirements of the Homestead laws if he shall hold said land from the claims of any one else, and in order to comply with said requirements it will be necessary for him to commence his improvments on the land without delay; that the said Rush Walcher has in the hands of said guardian the sum of $1027.44, as shown by the report of said petitioner filed in said court, and he has no other money or property except a few household goods, and a buggy and a road cart of small value, and in order for said Walcher to hold and improve his said claim and to make and have a living for himself and family it is necessary for him to have some money and it would be better for him to have in his own possession all the money belonging to him now in the hands of your petitioner, and it would be for the best interests of said Walcher to have the said money turned over to him; and your petitioner furher shows that he is a hard working and industrious young man, and he has been working for himself and managing his business for the last seven years, and as he is careful, economical and painstaking in the use and expenditure of money his imterests will not bejeopardized by his having the possession of the said money, but will greatly promoted thereby, and the said Walcher has requested your petitioner to turn over to him the said money, and as your petitioner is unable to invest the said money to any advantage for the short time that it will be in his hands he he believes that the court should make and order directing him to turn the same over to said Walcher,

Your petitioner therefore prays that the court shall make an order empowering and directing him to pay over to Walcher the money now in his hands, and for such other order in the premisess as may appear to the said court to be for the best interests of said Walcher.

Thos Dunbar.

Wayne Walcher

All of us are interested in our profession and industry, but every once in awhile you encounter an individual that as he states it: enjoys "the romance of the oil business". Such an individual is Wayne Walcher and that enjoyment is what has kept Wayne very active after many of his peers have "hung it up".

Wayne is a native Kansan born in 1914 on a farm in Sumner Co. of parents who were also natives. For siblings he had two sisters and two brothers with a brother in Wellington and a sister in Wichita surviving.

He attended country grade school and graduated from high school at Wellington. These were depression times and with one year out for monetary reason, he arrived in Wichita in 1934 to attend Wichita University. Wayne made his living with a Wichita Eagle paper route and one of his subscribers was Jewell Thompson, an oil secretary for Tom Palmer Oil. She was later to become Mrs. Wayne Walcher.

While enrolled at Wichita University he obtained part time employment at Gulf Oil, washing and cutting samples, plotting logs, etc. for guys like Bob Carmody, Virgil Cole and Frank Brooks. For this work Wayne received $100 per month and on one such payday, without examining his check overnite, he took it to the bank next day to be converted to cash. Much to his surprise the teller refused to cash it. It seems the check was made out in the amount of $1,000,100 "for services rendered". With a hurried call by Anthony Folger, Gulf's district geologist and Wayne's boss this was quickly corrected, but it was then Wayne says that he really knew he wanted to work for an oil company.

At the university his life was influenced by Dr. Ver Weibe, as was the case with many WU graduates, but Wayne believes that Dr. Lloyd McKinley, head of the Department of Chemistry, for whom Mckinley Hall is named also influenced his career, both as a professor and a sponsor of his fraternity.

It was during this first employment with Gulf that Wayne experienced the tutelage and challenges of Anthony Folger, the professional who most influenced his career. He was encouraged to spend the summer of 1938 at the Univ. of Missouri's field camp near Lander, Wyoming followed by 6 months at the Iowa Geological Survey for the company.

Graduating mid-term 1939, Wayne, who had always looked towards a career with Gulf, was ineligible because the company hired only those geologists with advanced degrees.

In 1940 Wayne and Jewell, the little oil secretary, were married. He had already decided to attend the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana to work towards an advanced degree in Geology. While at the Univ., Jewell worked at the Geological Survey. Wayne believes he was fortunate in sharing office space with two doctoral candidates in oceanography, K. O. Emery, later of Wood's Hole and Bob Deitz, of Scripps Institute who later became an early advocate of sea-floor spreading and plate tectonics. Both candidates were proteges of Dr. Francis Shepherd, renowned for his submarine canyon studies at Scripps and professor at Illinois. Wayne received guidance in his career from these men and especially from Dr. Harold Wanless (a Pennsylvanian cyclothem specialist).

Receiving his M.S. in 1941 Wayne and Jewell headed back to Wichita where he was to be employed full-time with Gulf and once again under the tutelage of Anthony Folger. He spent six months in Wichita and was then assigned to Mattoon and Mt. Vernon Illinois. There new friends were enjoyed, but miserably wet winters and muggy summers made well setting a real chore. Also, he missed the Gulf gang at Wichita, the "bull sessions" with those who became life-long friends. He remembers fondly the "pop quizzes" on stratigraphy that Anthony Folger delighted in giving all.

It was during this period in Illinois that Wayne was involved in a well-site experience somewhat different from the average. A wildcat was drilled in an area where a coal company owned all of the minerals and the farmers in the area only owned the surface. After drilling a discovery well and following offset, the company proceeded to drill the #3 test for which Wayne was the designated wellsite geologist. This test was located in a grove of timber and while the Kiowa Drlg. Co. evening tour crew was tripping, shots rang out from the timber. All of the rig lights were shot out and the crews forced to abandon the location. The test was completed after lengthy repairs with three US marshals patrolling the location at all times, along with one scared geologist.

Following a call from Arch Huffman of the J.M. Huber Corp. in 1944, Wayne made the decision to move back to Wichita. He was to stay five years with Huber before entering the independent field. It was during those years that Wayne acknowledges one of his most embarrassing events, in that pipe was set on a wildcat in Pawnee County in the Simpson Dolomite where the target formation was the Arbuckle. A far more interesting well, was one on which Wayne was wellsite geologist that Huber drilled in 26S 12W, Pratt Co. in the Stark field. Wayne had a call point at an adequate distance up the hole. When he arrived on location he realized that the Kinderhook was higher than they had anticipated the Mississippian which was missing and they were already in the Viola, the prospective producing formation in the area. The test proved to be 100' higher on the Arbuckle than any well in the field. Even so it failed to produce from either Viola or Arbuckle.

Wayne has been an independent since 1949 and early on he received help and counseling from Ed Koester, later to be president of the AAPG and Boris Lerke, well known early day consultant. During his long tenure as an independent he sat on many tests for established independents and companies. On one such job for Branine and Holl (F.G. "Sandy"), he and both operators were held-up and robbed at the wellsite trailer. ("There wasn't room on the floor for Sandy")

Wayne has been a member and active in several professional organizations, serving on committees and as Vice-President of the KGS, member of the national Board of Directors of SIPES, and a member of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists. Community-wise he has been active in the Boy Scouts and Plymouth Congregational Church.

Anyone who knows Wayne and Jewell will testify to their happy life together of more than fifty years. They have four grandchildren: two granddaughters, the children of their son, Doug, who works with Wayne, and two grandsons, the children of their daughter, Debbie, who resides in Bellevue, WA.

It was difficult to draw from Wayne what he considered his most outstanding characteristics. With some reluctance he finally stated that he thought working hard for whatever company he was employed by and also giving his clients his best efforts. This carries over into his advice to a young geologist just entering the field. "Gain all the experience possible by observing and working with the older professionals and learn to deal with failure. In this inexact and interpretive profession of finding oil, one needs all the help he can get. Persistent dedication and determination will serve you well."

Wayne says he has enjoyed these last ten to fifteen years more than any period in his life. He has been exploiting the leases already producing: finding a few additional locations, testing new zones, reworking old ones etc. "It is surprising how a little bit of new oil can improve ones outlook". All of this fits well with a man who lists as his number one hobby "work"—after family and friends, of course.

Wayne Walcher folder

copy in Fehnis folder also

Dear Barbara,

Enclosed is a copy of a letter my nephew, Wayne Walcher sent to me. It is self explanatory. I have not contacted either of the two sisters.

I also wanted to clear up what may be a misunderstnding to you as it seemed to be to Wayne, after he read the "Blue" Hefley book.

The Forward of the book states it was written by Maurice Hefley as his fathers story. If he did write it -it was written in first person. Maurice's Grandfather was J.Lemonsky Hefley. Maurice, third generation was the son of Jesse L. Hefley,2nd generation, about the age of your Great grandfather Charles D.L. Walcher.J. Lemosky Hefley was Married to Clemintine Walcher, an aunt of the five Walcher boys.

When my son Larry was in the army, stationed at Lawton, Ok. he had the privilege of examining Maurice Hefley, who was a WorldWar ii vetran.That was in the fall of 1953.

Also a correction on page 22 of the book. The Hefley place was four miles north and one and one quarter west of South Haven, Ks. My father, A.M.B. Walcher's home was just one quarter of a mile on west. Or just practically across the road.

All of the A.M.B.Walcher's children attended Illinois school which was mentioned in the book. Ernest and Ralph Walcher also attended Illinois.

I thought my Great Grandfather Welker's name was John P. Welker the same as his son,whose Civil War record we have. We might write to the court house in Perryville, Perrycounty, Mo. to see if any of the family had a will on file, or their father, whose name is Daniel on the copy you sent me. Maybe Aunt Eliza or Aunt Sarah Abbot.

When we visited there in 1914 at the old Welker home, Great Aunt Ann Eliza Welker had married a James Knox. He alomg with three of his grown children, a daughter,Jennie and two sons, Sam and Wilf lived there. My Great Aunt Sarah C. Abbot, a widow was also living there.

I gave our local Wellington Daily news our family's story about the Cherokee Strip run. They were asking for stories.

I hope all is well with you and yours. Excuse my mistakes, I need to practice more on my typing-its been a long time since high school.

Fondly,

Cousin Fern

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Paul Walcher, the Tulsa World's entrant in the 71st Annual National Spelling Bee, was eliminated in the second round of competition Wednesday after misspelling "tantalize," meaning to tease or torment.

In round one, Paul correctly spelled quinsyberry, (an Old World black currant used for making jelly).

"I'm disappointed," Paul said. "I studied so hard, and I wasn't sure whether it was an i or an a." Paul spelled the word "t-a-n-t-i-l-i-z-e."

After being eliminated, Paul was consoled off stage by his parents, Dr. Ron and Becca Walcher.

"You have nothing to be upset about," Ron Walcher said, hugging his son. "We are extremely proud of you."

Becca Walcher told Paul that she was sure his hard work would pay off some day.

"I know how hard you studied," she told her son.

Paul was one of 249 contestants who began round one in the national finals. Spellers are vying for more than $25,000 in cash and prizes. The contestants represent all 50 states and U.S. territories in Guam, Mexico, the Virgin Islands, Jamaica, the Bahamas, Europe and American Samoa.

The winner of the National Spelling Bee, which concludes Thursday, will receive a $10,000 cash prize from Scripps Howard, sponsor of the national bee; the Anniversary Edition of the New Encyclopaedia Britannica, valued at $1,700; two U.S. Airways round-trip tickets to anywhere in the United States, and an engraved champion cup and plaque.

Paul was one of two spellers representing Oklahoma. Tiffany Carroll, 14, of Midwest City also is competing.

Before the event began Wednesday, Alex Cameron, who is serving his 18th year as pronouncer, reminded spellers that although only one of them would win the competition, all of them were champions.

"You have nothing to prove at this point," Cameron said. "More than 10 million school-aged children began the spelling bee process, and only 249 finished it. That's less than 1/10 of 1 percent. No matter who wins here in Washington, you are all champions."

Cameron is chairman of the English Department at the University of Dayton.

Although contestants can try to memorize a list of 3,600 words used in the first round, words in the remaining rounds come from Webster's Third New International Dictionary Unabridged, which contains 475,000 words. Less than half of the 249 spellers who began the contest advanced to Thursday's competition.

Paul said he studied computer word programs to prepare for the national finals, devoting four to five hours a day to spelling since he won the Eastern Oklahoma Bee in Tulsa on March 31.

"My mom has helped me a lot," he said. "She has spent hours pronouncing words to me, and then I would study on the computer."

The 14-year-old eighth-grader arrived in Washington on Sunday and is accompanied by his parents; two brothers, Luke, 20, and Josh, 17; and his grandmother, Emma Walcher, all of Tonkawa. Although Paul spent Wednesday morning studying, he toured the nation's capital on Monday and Tuesday.

On Monday, the Walchers visited The Lincoln Memorial, the Vietnam Veterans Memorial, the Washington Monument, Ford's Theater and other Washington landmarks.

Paul's favorite tour so far came on Tuesday, when the family visited the popular "Star Wars" exhibit at the National Air and Space Museum.

"The 'Star Wars' exhibit was awesome," Paul said after waiting in line for more than an hour to view it. "It was definitely worth the wait."

Final rounds of the National Spelling Bee will be held Thursday and will be televised on ESPN, TCI Cable Channel 25 in Tulsa, beginning at noon.

Paul said he looks forward to touring the Capitol Building, the Supreme Court and the Library of Congress "because I love books so much."

The Walchers also plan to visit Mount Vernon, which was the home of George and Martha Washington, on Friday.

Fourteen-year-old Paul Walcher of Tonkawa boarded an airplane destined for Washington, D.C., this weekend to begin a weeklong, expense-paid trip sightseeing around the nation's capital and representing eastern Oklahoma in the 71st annual Scripps Howard National Spelling Bee.

Paul is one of 249 spellers in this year's national finals who will compete for more than $30,000 in cash and prizes. The contestants will represent all 50 states and American Department of Defense schools in Guam, Mexico, the U.S. Virgin Islands, Jamaica, the Bahamas, Europe and American Samoa.

The Tulsa World awarded Paul the Washington trip for winning the Eastern Oklahoma Spelling Bee in March. Accompanying the eighth-grader to Washington are his parents, Dr. Ron and Becca Walcher; two brothers, 17-year-old Josh and 20-year-old Luke; and his grandmother, Emma Walcher, all of Tonkawa.

While most schools adjourned for the summer, Paul, a home-school student, continued to devote four to five hours a day studying word lists in preparation for this week's competition.

"My Mom has helped me a lot," Paul said. "She has been pronouncing the words to me, and I've spent four to five hours a day myself on the computer studying word programs."

Becca Walcher, Paul's mother and teacher, said deciding whether or not to home school her three boys was a huge decision — a decision that has turned out to be a blessing.

"My husband and I both agreed that I'd be a stay-at-home mom," she said. "I quit going to college after earning an associate's degree in arts. And when we decided to take our oldest son (Luke) out of public schools and home school, I was a little afraid. There were things I didn't know. I had to learn algebra with him.

"But we knew the Lord was calling us to home school," she continued. "It has turned out to be a blessing for all of us. By home schooling, we've been able to strengthen our Christian values, and our children continue to be very successful in achieving high test scores. My two youngest sons have never been in a public school system."

All three of the Walcher boys are 4.0 students and have won county spelling bees, each advancing a little further than his previous brother. Luke, a student at Sterling College in Sterling, Kan., also was a National Merit Scholar finalist.

The Gershon & Rebecca Fenster Museum of Jewish Art soon may be able for the first time to display its vast collection under one roof.

"We have needed a larger space for several years now," Fenster Director Diana Aaronson said. "After the opening of the Holocaust Center in 1995, the number of our visitors, especially for the educational programs we offer, ... demands a larger facility."

Spellers will compete in three rounds of competition on Wednesday. Some of the words given in round one will be among the most difficult words given in the entire competition. However, most spellers regard round one as the easiest because they have had the opportunity to study those particular words in a study guide.

The words for round two through the end of the competition are selected from Webster's Third New International Dictionary and its Addenda Section, copyright 1993. No single study aid contains all the words that are eligible for presentation in this portion of the word list.

Thursday's finals will be televised live by ESPN from the Grand Hyatt Hotel, site of the National Spelling Bee, beginning at noon CDT.

Yearbook: campus life via video

Two years ago Northern became one of the few schools in the country to experiment with a video yearbook production as opposed to a hard-copy edition.

NOC's yearbook placed first in the Northeastern State University Press Day Awards last spring.

According to Bill Burns, assistant dean of students, "The video yearbook is actually videotaping students in action by shooting film about campus life, student activities, classes and faculty during the year."

The yearbook new format was encouraged by the high price of book publication and changing tastes. "Watching live action has become a large merchandising item across the nation," Dean Burns said.

Assigned to the yearbook production team for 1988-89 are Doris Nesselrode, NOC graduate, and Julie Crabtree, Guthrie freshman.

Video yearbooks are available in VHS or Beta with the price included in student fees.

To reserve 1988-89 video yearbooks, students should contact the Personnel Office in the VLA Building.

le but did not want credit." In summarizing, Kirtley commented, "He was a true gentleman."

Walcher was an enthusiastic supporter of NOC. For many years he operated the scoreboard at basketball games. He was especially proud that in his early years he taught tennis. One of his students, Leo Canaday, is chairman of the physical education division.

A graduate of Braman High School, Walcher earned the B.S. degree in 1943 from Oklahoma State University. He returned, while an NOC faculty member, to OSU to receive his M.A. in 1949 and the Ed.D. in 1970.

He was active in the Church of Christ where he served as an Elder. He also was very interested in community affairs, having served as past chairman of United Way and past president of Lions Club. His hobbies included gardening, fishing and teaching history to the grandchildren.

A memorial has been designated by the family to support the Church of Christ Student Center. This had been Walcher's pet project. He urged establishment of the Center and continually maintained his support for this work that benefited NOC students.

The Twenty Third Psalm

The Lord is my Shepherd: I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures:
He leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil:
for thou art with me: thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies:
thou anointest my head with oil:
my cup runneth over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

Subject: Re: Copying Pictures on Tins

I suggest that you consider using the new digital cameras, such as the Casio, or the Kodak.

The Casio digital camera takes 96 exposures, and stores the picture in a digital form in the memory of the camera. The camera comes with a cable to attach to the COM port on your computer, and you can download the 'picture' in .pcx or .tif format. The camera sells for about $499.

Once in your computer, you can include the picture in one of the new genealogy programs that handle photos, such as Family Tree for Windows, or Ancestoral Quest. You can also print the picture with any printer set up with MS Windows.

Incidently, the new digital camera can also take a picture of text, convert it with OCR software for use in your word processor. No need for all of these folks to complain about the cost of library copy machines!
